Database Implementation Status

North Carolina built its centralized statewide voter registration database (“SEIMS”) in-house. The database is complete, but is also being updated.²

Entering Voter Registration Information

Who inputs voter registration information? County boards of elections generally review and enter information from voter registration forms in their jurisdictions into the appropriate county database. Records are immediately replicated to the statewide voter registration database.

What happens to voter registration forms submitted at state registration agencies? Forms received by the DMV are entered at the DMV directly into the statewide database. This data and a scanned image of the original form will then be sent to the appropriate county board of elections. Forms received by another voter registration agency are required to be sent within five business days to the appropriate county board of elections for review and entry.³

How are most forms submitted? North Carolina reported that in 2004, 20% of forms were submitted by mail, 23% were submitted in person to election officials, 47% were submitted at the DMV, 9% were submitted at another voter registration agency, and 1% were submitted by other means.⁴

Voter Registration Form

The relevant portions of the voter registration form are included at the end of this section.

Processing of Forms Without Identifying Numbers

How will the state treat an application with an affirmative indication that the applicant has no valid identifying number? The applicant will be assigned a unique voter registration number; if the applicant is otherwise eligible, she will be considered registered, but may have to show identification at the polls.⁵

How will the state treat an application without an identifying number and without an affirmative indication that the applicant has no such number? If uncorrected (see below), the application will be considered “incomplete.”⁶ At most, an applicant with an “incomplete” registration will be permitted to vote a provisional ballot, but North Carolina has not yet determined whether it will count, or under what conditions.

How will the state treat an application listing an identifying number that is either incomplete or illegible? If uncorrected (see below), the application will be considered “incomplete.” At most, an applicant with an “incomplete” registration will be permitted to vote a provisional ballot, but North Carolina has not yet determined whether it will count, or under what conditions.

Matching Against Motor Vehicle and Social Security Records

What fields from the voter registration form will the state seek to match to motor vehicle or Social Security records? Identifying number, name, maiden name (for driver’s license matches only), address (for driver’s license matches only), and date of birth.

How precise is the match standard? North Carolina will use a “substantial match” standard to match information on forms with a driver’s license number: discretion is left to the county election official to determine whether any of several returned “possible matches” identify the applicant. North Carolina will use the standard AAMVA criteria for matching information on forms with SSN digits: exact match of the SSN-4, first name, last name, month of birth, and year of birth.

How much human intervention is involved in determining whether information is matched? For matching information on forms with driver’s license numbers, the system will return a list of substantially matching records, if no exact match can be found; the county official has the discretion to determine whether a likely match exists among the possible matches returned. The process for matching information on forms with SSN digits is fully automated.

Description of matching process: Information entered into the statewide voter registration database is automatically sent to the DMV. For matching information on forms with a driver’s license number, the system will seek an exact match of the license number, last name (including a check for maiden name), and date of birth. If all of these fields match exactly, the system returns a “verified” flag. If the records do not match exactly, the system will return a set of possible matches for the county election official’s review. Information on forms listing SSN digits will be automatically checked against the SSA database through the standard AAMVA process: the DMV will automatically submit the appropriate fields to the SSA and return a code indicating whether the record was successfully matched or not.

Note: North Carolina also mails a nonforwardable verification notice to every voter submitting an application; if the notice and a follow-up notice are returned as undeliverable, the application is rejected.⁷

What are the consequences if the state cannot find a match? The application will be labeled “incomplete.” At most, an applicant with an “incomplete” registration will be permitted to vote a provisional ballot, but North Carolina has not yet determined whether it will count, or under what conditions.

Notice and Opportunity to Resolve Errors

Does the applicant have the opportunity to correct a missing or incomplete identifying number, without submitting a new form? Yes. The applicant may correct missing or incomplete information at any point before the voter registration deadline.

Does the applicant have the opportunity to resolve a failed match without submitting a new form? Yes.

If information on an otherwise timely application is corrected after the voter registration deadline, is the correction timely? No.

Description of notice and correction process: The county elections official will attempt to notify by mail an applicant whose identifying number is missing, incomplete, illegible or unverified. The applicant may attempt to resolve the error before the voter registration deadline.⁸

Identification Requirements at the Polls

Who must provide identification at the polls? A first-time voter who registered by mail after January 1, 2003, whose identifying number has not been verified, and who has not previously presented a copy of valid identification to a county elections official, must provide identification at the polls.⁹

Forms of ID:

1st-time voters registering by mail after 1/1/03 without verified identifying number:	current and valid photo ID current utility bill w/ name, address bank statement w/ name, address government check w/ name, address paycheck w/ name, address other gov't document w/ name, address

What forms of identification are accepted? A current and valid photo ID, or a current utility bill, bank statement, government check, paycheck, or other government document that shows the voter's name and address.¹⁰

What are the consequences of failing to show identification? The voter may cast a provisional ballot.¹¹ The chairperson of a county board of elections will conduct an internal review of the initial voter registration application submitted by a provisional ballot voter. If the chairperson determines that no significant error was made on that application, the ballot will be counted.

Statutes and Regulations

N.C. GEN. STAT. ch. 163, art. 7A generally concerns registration. N.C. GEN. STAT. § 163-82.11(a) directs the state board of elections to establish and maintain a single statewide voter registration system. There are no applicable regulations.
